Abstract (Published Summary)

This document contains the description of the first ANDANTE newsletter, as it was published. The project newsletter will, together with the project website, constitute an important communication channel with ANDANTE stakeholders and the public interest.

ANDANTE newsletters are intended to be informative documents describing the most relevant aspects, activities and results generated throughout the project.

This first newsletter is mainly focused on presenting ANDANTE, its main characteristics, objectives and distinctive elements, in order to prepare the ground for future newsletters which will focus more on specific details as well as the results generated.
